THE FAREWELL OF BOSTOCK'S SHOW

Given To-Morrow Evening.

Extensive preparations are being made by the management of the Bostock show to make Monday night a farewell per-formance never to be forgotten. The high standard that has been maintained in every department has held the entire confidence of the public, and it is with deep regret that a great many realize that the show must leave. It has really placed itself in the minds of the people as a fixed institution. Not only have the public derived individual pleasure in attending the performances, but through the many benefits that have taken place tending the performances, but through the many benefits that have taken place it has become quite a source of revenue for a large number of charitable institutions and others.

Altogether there has been dispensed in this manner nearly seven thousand dollars. In appreciation of the kindly interest that has been shown, Director Bostock has, therefore, decided to make Monday night's performance one never to be forgotten.

Many new and interesting features will be introduced during the evening, and many surprises will await the visitors to the show. The entire combination of acts will be put on at this special occasion—everything that has been produced heretofore. Director Bostock will also make his appearance, and will take a leading part on the night's programme. In addition to this unusual bill there are to be some very handsome gifts presented to the different trainers from their many admirers in the city. The ladies will also be presented with a solvenir of the occasion in the shape of an Australian ostrich feather.

In anticipation of the vast crowd that is expected to attend, Director Bostock has made extra preparations, and everything is in readiness to accommodate them. A large number of seats have already been purchased by small private parties, and the night's entertainment now presents the aspect of becoming quite a social affair, Everything, the entertainment in the programme.

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 16.—The Firemen's Street-Fair and Carmiyal reached its climax yesterday. All day long ed its climax yesterday. All day long and up to midnight the streets were thronged with people. The great event of the day was the crowning of the queen. The coronation took place on a stand erected on the postoffice lawn, survounded by an embhusiastic mass of people. The queen of the carnival, Miss Allie Vickory, and her four maids of honor, Misses Annie Reynolds, Emma Sharpe, Carrie Smith and Margaret Mergimon, occupied places on the stand. The queen wore a white satin, slik lined robe caught up on the shoulders with pear ornaments and having a bertha of pearls festooned across the front. The whole bevy of young ladies made a very attractive group. Mr. A. B. Kimball crowned the queen, performing his duty with grace and each of her maids of honor with a handsome diamond ring. Following the crowning exercises came a brilliant parade, and the entire ceremony was pronounced a splendid success. Another most delightful event of carnival week was the earnival ball at Lindley Park pavillon last night, which was attended by fifty or more couples, German figures wer danced being led by Mr. R. D. Douglas with the queen part of the time and with Miss Lottle Arnoldii of Waverly, Va., the latter part of the evening. and up to midnight the streets were inal drawings and paintings in Richmond they selected the Jefferson as a place to show their pictures, but lack of room rendered it necessary for them to make a change, so they have now decided to exhibit at the Crenshaw House, on West Main Street.

Outside of the work shown by the Virginia boys, members of the National Association are to send in their pictures, and the exhibition will be most unique and interesting.

The majority of people think that the newspaper artists are all men. However, this is a mistaken idea, as the fair sex is represented by many a clever flustrator. That she has not entered into the field of cartoen work is probably because of her gentler nature, and that she hesitates to give offense by one stroke of her facile pencil.

This was more than sufficient to cause the common, ignorant and uncontrollable rabble to cast off all restrain. Everything which looked Jewish was mercilessly destroyed. Men, women, and even clildren, were not spared by the beastly, drunken horde of ruffians, and the murder and pillage went on for days without the interference, indeed, with the connivance, of the constituted authorities. The latest figures show that over one hundred were killed, three hundred are on the verge of death in various hospitals and more than a thousand families left to the mercy of charity.

In response to the crying appeals sent by Russlan Jews to all their co-religionists of the civilized world, relief committees have been quickly organized, and money for the purpose is pouring in from the United States alone at the rate of $2,500 per day. Every village in the Union, even where there are but few Jewish families, are sending in their liberal donations. This appeal has reached the Richmond Jewish community, and liberal contributions are coming in very rapidly. Money to relieve the sufferers is an important factor in this case.

All those desiring to send in contributions may do so, either to Rev. E. N. Calisch or Ralph Levy, of Jacobs & Levy, 70°C East Broad Street. tee that with ordinary umbrella usage this article will last one year or they'll make it good with another one
